WEAKNESS NOW!

Two prominent Blaimore gentlemen are this week and being lured to Hollywood.

were thrown into darkness one night last week, when a little beaver fell a tree which toppled against the transmission line near Macleod.

BELEVUE FLOWER SHOW IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Bellevue's seventeenth annual exhibition and sports, held under the auspices of the Bellevue and District Horticultural, Industrial and Poultry Society on Monday last (Labor Day), was one of the largest attended and most successful in the Association's history.

Entries in the various lines of flowers and vegetables were numerous and beautiful, as were also those in school arts and other subjects.

Sports events were keenly contested and well patronized.

A complete list of prize awards will be announced in a late issue of The Enterprise.

A feature of the sports programme was the discus throwing and weight handling demonstrations by George W. Sutherland, well known Alberta athlete and one of the province's representatives at the recent empire games in the White stadium in London, England. Mr. Sutherland had but a few days previously returned from England, where he added considerably to his list of laurels.

The committee in charge of the exhibition and sports desire through The Enterprise to thank all who in any way co-operated with them towards making the day the success it was.

COMMUNIST PLAY BANNED

"Eight Men Speak," Communist play barred some months ago in Winnipeg and Toronto, has received a blanket rejection slip from the Dominion government. It is on the list of prohibited publications for mailing in Canada. The play was written by the Progressive Arts Club of Canada. It progressed until police assumed a role. Now it's folded up so far as mail authorities are concerned.

Primo DeCocco, former resident of Colman, passed away at his old home in Italy on August the 17th, following a lingering illness. He was 53 years of age, and is survived by his widow and several children.

BANFF BRIDE-ELECT FETED

Mrs. A. H. Styles, of Banff, and Mrs. J. H. Marsh, of Drumheller, were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Frank Wheatley, senior, at Banff recently for Miss Grace Wheatley, whose marriage takes place this month.

Gifts were presented to the honor guest by a bridal procession composed of Laura Trono, Arthur Trono, Miss Edith Marsh and Miss Millie Marsh (Drumheller), Miss Iris Woodfield, of Winnipeg, and Miss Ruth Wheatley. Tea was poured by Mrs. J. Reid and Mrs. F. Wheatley, sr.

The Wheatley family formerly resided in Blaimore.

MCGILLIVRAY CREEK TO INSTALL LATEST TYPE "BAUM" WASHING PLANT

McGillivray Creek Coal and Coke Co., Ltd., recently closed a contract with Simon-Carves Ltd., of Manchester, England, for a British "Baum" wet washing plant. The manufacturers are known as one of the largest makers of coal washing plants in the British Empire. The "Baum" washer is one of the most up-to-date it has developed, being fully automatic in operation and permitting almost perfect extraction of all free impurities. The McGillivray Creek installation is the first plant of its type to be installed in Canada.

With the installation of the plant, the mine is making a constructive step towards enlarged markets and is confident that the product from this new plant will compare favorably with the best of imported fuels, and at a competitive price.

It is stated the coal produced by the new process of cleaning will contain only seven to eight per cent ash, with a heat value of 14,000 B.T.U. per ton. It is expected that the new plant will be in operation by October—Western Canada Coal Review.

SAILOR GOODLAND TAKES IT FROM JULES VERQUIN

At Carstairs last week, Sailor Goodland, the Sundre boxer who put up such a good show against Battling Tracy there this spring, was knocked out by Jules Verquin, the Cowley, Alberta, youth, who proved a sensation during a campaign as light heavyweight in France. The Frenchman put on end to the long winning streak of the Sundre boy.

Verquin scored a knockout over Goodland in the sixth round. The French boy was slow to get started but improved with every round and in the fourth to the finish he was much the better of the two.

During the first, second and third rounds, Goodland was the aggressor and it appeared as though he would have little difficulty in taking the decision. After that it was a different fight, and Verquin waded in with both fists, and a hard left to the face and a wicked right to the jaw sent Goodland to the floor for the count in the sixth. The Sundre boy was on his feet a second after the count was finished.

FORMER BLAIRMORE SCHOOL GIRL DIES AT PEACE RIVER

As we go to press, word is received of the death at Peace River of Miss Nina Selkirk, sister of Mrs. Donald McPherson, of Blaimore, and former pupil of the Blaimore high school.

Miss Selkirk had been ill for a considerable time.

Mr. and Mrs. D. McPherson left this afternoon for Peace River to attend the funeral, accompanied by Rev. A. E. Larke.

COLEMAN ELKS

TO REORGANIZE

After a dormancy period of about two years, the Coleman Lodge of Elks will again become active with a reorganization ceremony to take place tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Bro. P. A. Miquelon, of Edmonton, grand organizer, has been in conference with former members and prospective members at Coleman for the past week, and his efforts are being crowned with such success that the lodge will start out with a larger membership than was secured when the original charter was granted. In addition to reinstatements, we understand that a large class of new candidates will be initiated.

A degree team from Blaimore will confer the degree, under the supervision of Bro. Miquelon. All good-standing Elks in the district are expected to be present.

MORBUS SABBATICUS

Morbus Sabbaticus, or Sunday sickness, is a disease peculiar to churchgoers. Attack comes on suddenly every Sunday. No symptoms are felt. On the Saturday night, the patient sleeps well, eats a hearty breakfast, and goes to church. But when church time the attack comes on, and continues until service is over for the morning. In the afternoon, the patient feels much better, and is able to either take a walk, play golf, football, baseball, softball, motor, go fishing or talk politics. About the time for the evening service to commence, another attack comes on, which is worse than the one in the morning. The patient must be very quiet—nothing more strenuous than a quiet game of crib or rummy, cent a point. Retires early, sleeps well and wakes up on Monday morning, able to go to work, and does not have any further symptoms of the disease until the following Sunday. The most peculiar features of the disease, and which baffles medical science, are:

1. It always attacks professing church people.
2. It never makes an appearance, except on Sundays.
3. The symptoms vary a little, but they never interfere with sleep or appetite.
4. Never lasts more than twenty-four hours.
5. It is never necessary to call a doctor in.
6. The disease is becoming painfully prevalent, and is most infectious. Quarantine methods are being considered.
7. No remedy for the disease has been discovered up to the present. One suggestion has been made, which seems to find much favor. That is that the different churches be furnished with a club, easy chairs, lounges, men allowed to smoke and even call for a bottle of good beer, if they so wish, and be permitted to discuss the burning questions of the day, etc.

She woke up in the early hours of the morning and nudged her husband. "Wilfred," she said in a hoarse whisper. "Wilfred, wake up. There's a mouse in the bedroom." Hubby unwillingly sat up. "Well, what about it?" he groaned. "I can hear it squeaking," she said fearfully. "Well, if you want me to get out and oil it, or something?" he snapped.

MINER KILLED AT BELEVUE

James Pelle, mines in the employ of the West Canadian Collieries, met death last night by a fall of rock in the Bellevue mine. His partner, Silly Commis, sustained severe injuries.

Mr. Pelle had been a long-time resident of Bellevue and district. Recently he had effected very important improvements to his home in Bellevue, the work being just about completed. He is survived by his wife and two children, boy and girl.

At time of going to press, funeral arrangements have not been announced, but in all likelihood the remains will be laid to rest on Saturday.

AUTO LICENSE PLATE

ORDER HELD INVALID

The Alberta Government has no power to require a driver of an automobile to make a sworn declaration that he has not used his car prior to April the 1st, and is therefore entitled to a reduction in the cost of auto license. Accordingly, no criminal prosecution can be laid against a man who makes an apparent false declaration that he did not use his car prior to that date. This, in effect, is the substance of an important judgment handed down by Mr. Justice Boyle of the trial division of the Supreme Court of Alberta.

His lordship ruled the order-in-council issued by the government requiring such statutory declarations was ultra vires, and expressed the opinion that the scale of motor license fees in Alberta, as fixed by the order-in-council, might also be invalid, but he did not make a definite ruling on this point.

SUGAR BEET PROSPECTS GOOD

Prospects for the 1934 sugar beet season in the irrigated districts of the south is reported very good. The anticipated handling of the factory this year at Raymond is 150,000 tons of beets with a high sugar content, and the turnout of the factory will likely be between 46,000,000 and 50,000,000 pounds of sugar.

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

President Roosevelt has received a report saying employment in United States has increased 4,120,000 since he took office.

Dr. J. A. MacArthur, 86, pioneer leader of the medical profession in Manitoba for more than half a century, died recently in Winnipeg.

Extension of the recommendation system to supplant examinations in the schools was urged by Duncan McArthur, deputy minister of education for Ontario.

Veteran of both the Boer war and the Great War and former Arctic trader, Major M. Montague Marsden, 62, is dead at Vancouver from a heart infection.

The Australian cabinet considered British protests against the new import duties on Lancashire textiles and ruled the tariffs are to be maintained.

The Indian government's ban on flying over the northwest frontier will lengthen the London to Melbourne air race in Quebec by 1,000 miles.

Henri Gagnon, Quebec, president of the Canadian Press, and managing director of the newspaper Le Soleil, has been elevated to the rank of an officer of the Legion of Honor of France.

Persia has informed the League of Nations it will stand as a candidate for China's seat in the assembly. China's mandate expires this year and Persia considers itself qualified to represent Asia.

Captains of Great Lakes steamers say low water levels in the lakes have uncovered rocks and sandbars, and cargoes have had to be considerably reduced from other seasons. Vessels have grounded this summer in places previously considered safe, they declared, and the captains had to stay on the bridge continuously.

Cheap Television Sets

New System Developed Promises Sets at Low Cost

A new system invented by Mr. R. W. Hughes, of Plymouth, England, may result soon in the production of cheap television sets for all.

Mr. Hughes said he thought a television receiver, built with light source and amplifier, could be mass produced at $10 or less.

With his somewhat crudely-constructed apparatus, Mr. Hughes is able to project a 100-line picture on a screen two feet square.

A system of vibrating mirrors causes a small but instant spot of light to travel over the screen and form the image.

Mr. Hughes is also developing an apparatus which, he claims, overcomes the problem of synchronizing—one of the chief difficulties of television—and also holds the picture steady for considerable periods.

Firms in this country as well as in Germany and the United States have been interested in the invention, and, it is said, that successful negotiations have been concluded with a British company.

Mr. Hughes has been working for nearly two years on his new apparatus and has built a special transmitter to test his receiving apparatus at any time.

Must Be Improved

Canada Must Raise Better Hogs To Capture Market

The Canadian farmer lost $12,000,000 in 1933 by reason of the fact Danish hogs were better than Canadian hogs, J. S. McLean, president of Canada Packers, says in the annual report. Unless Canadian hogs are improved, he said, the same amount will be lost each year.

"The securing of this $12,000,000 lies in the hands of the Canadian farmer," he continued. "He alone can do the job. And if it is done, he will reap the entire benefit. The 'certain lack of confidence' existing between the farmer and the packer was due chiefly to the farmer."

Stay Was Uncertain

A social worker on her first visit to a prison was greatly impressed by the sorrowful attitude of one man she found. "My poor man," she sympathized, "what is the length of time you'll spend here?" "All depends on politics, lady," replied the mournful one. "I'm the warden."

The White Sea Canal

Has Provided Leningrad With Cheaper Means Of Transport

One of the most revolutionary accomplishments of the Soviet Union is the construction of the White Sea Canal connecting the Baltic and the White Sea. Heretofore Russia had two water routes leading to Europe—one by way of the Black Sea, the other by way of the Baltic—and both could be blockaded.

Now, however, Leningrad can no longer be shut off from the outer world by a blockade of the Baltic, for ships of commerce or war can make their way northward by the new canal to the White Sea and sail around Sweden and Norway. Not only will Leningrad become more important, but a district rich in phosphates, iron ore and lumber will be able to ship its products far more economically than ever before.

Nobleman Runs Coffee Stall

Duke Of Manchester's Son Hopes To Start Chain

Lord Edward Montagu, second son of Duke of Manchester, the London Express said, is running an outdoor refreshment stall at Maidenhead, famous Thames riverside resort where there are many country clubs.

His "coffee stall" is mounted on the chassis of an automobile, from which he serves coffee, other soft drinks, sausages and sandwiches. Most of his patronage is from taxi drivers and chauffeurs who bring clubmen to Maidenhead from London.

Lord Edward, who is 28 and a former rancher in the Canadian west, told a reporter he started his business with £1 (about $5) in cash and made $4 within 24 hours. He hopes to start a chain of stalls, he asserted.

Pirates Bold

Are Now Incorporated Into The Chinese Army

The pirates are soldiers now. Thus has fate dealt with the 60 Chinese marine marauders who were promised a firing squad for creating an international incident two months ago. The pirates boldly commanded the British steamer Shuntien and kidnapped six British subjects and 15 Chinese.

The pirates were frightened into freeing their captives and most of the loot they unloaded from the steamer. But the pay-off is that they have been taken into the Shantung provincial army.

"They were sincere in their desire to surrender and become soldiers," explained Han Fu-Chi, governor of the province, who consented to make the pirates part of his army.

A "sweeping search" for the kidnappers was ordered when both Great Britain and the United States became aroused.

Becoming Good Customer

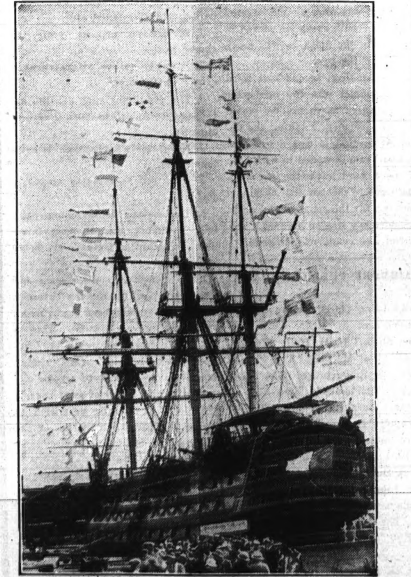

Bahamas Islands Are Taking More Goods From Canada

The Bahamas have become one of Canada's "best" customers, imports from the Dominion now ranking first place. The total value of goods bought from Canada is $1,305,790, an increase of 5.5 per cent. over the previous year. Practically all the potatoes used there come from Canada. Canada is also the chief supplier of butter, flour, oats, condensed milk, rubber and canvas boots and shoes. Last year the United States supplied automobiles to these islands to the value of $13,435 and Canada $12,290.

Your Handwriting Reveals Your Character!

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Grapho-Analyst)
(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of fascinating articles on this very interesting subject of Character Reading from Handwriting. The author, a well-known handwriting expert, has an interesting announcement to make following this article.)

There is always something thrilling in the mysterious. For thousands of years, people have paid money to fortune-tellers in return for a glimpse of the future. Down through the ages, people have yearned for an opportunity of tearing aside the veil of the future. Down through the ages, people have yearned for an opportunity of tearing aside the veil of the future.

The astrologist who looks at the stars, and predicts your future from them; the soothsayer who peers into the globe and tells your future; the palmist who scrutinizes the hand for the tell-tale lines it shows; the phrenologist who searches your head for the revelations it discloses; the ever-popular amateur at the tea-leaves have their followers who swear by them.

And, marching a path that is built on solid scientific decision, the Grapho-Analyst is gaining an ever-increasing body of adherents who find his analyses of character oftentimes sensationally accurate.

Grapho-Analysis, the science of character delineation from handwriting—what is it really?

Robert Saunder, the famous European cryptologist, says: "There is no much thing as handwriting, but only brainwriting." This is because the impulses and motive power come from the brain. Writing is no mere muscular act. If you think it is, try to write a letter whilst reading a book! The Physicians' Times Magazine some time ago made the statement that "the nerves at the extreme tip of the pen are extraordinarily sensitive and traces of grey matter, similar to that in the brain, may be found."

Throughout the world, Grapho-Analysis is gaining recognition as a practical science. In a number of European universities and colleges the subject is being studied as a regular part of the curriculum. In the everyday affairs of life it is finding increasing application.

Business men, teachers and doctors are using it to supplement their own specialized knowledge. Indeed, many of the largest commercial undertakings in the world submit to grapho-analysis the handwriting of applicants for important positions; it is being used more and more frequently in criminal and civil courts; and even lovers, hesitating before stepping off the brink of matrimony, consult a Grapho-Analyst for an analysis of the handwriting of their intended bride or bridegroom.

Do you want a personal analysis of your handwriting? Do you want to know what your friend's handwriting tells? A character analysis may open the doors of opportunity to you and certainly, it will astonish you with its revelations of character and talents. Send a letter in your normal writing, and state your date of birth. Enclose with the coin, (for each specimen) and be stamped addressed envelope to: Lawrence Hibbert, Grapho-Analyst, c/o Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave., E. Winnipeg. Please allow at least two weeks for a reply, which will be mailed as soon as possible.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SEPTEMBER 9

HEZEKIAH LEADS HIS PEOPLE BACK TO GOD

Golden text: "God is gracious and merciful." II. Chronicles 30:33.
Lesson: II. Chronicles Chapter 30.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 72:1-4.

Explanations And Comments

Ritual Was Made for Man and Not Man for Ritual, verses 24. "Everything regarding form is above the interests of the soul." Nisan, the first month of the year, corresponding to our month of April, was the regular time for keeping the Passover, but in the reign of Hezekiah it could not be kept at that time, because a sufficient number of the priests had not sanctified themselves (undergone certain washings, abstinence and forms), nor had the people assembled at Jerusalem, owing to the fact that the temple was not cleaned until the sixteenth day of Nisan and the fourteenth day was the time for beginning the Passover. Accordingly, the king had taken counsel with his princes, and all the assembly in Jerusalem, to keep the Passover in the second month. The law (Numbers 9:10, 11) allowed those who for good reasons were prevented from observing the Passover at the regular time to celebrate it in the second month, and the thing was right in the eyes of the king and all the assembly. Dr. Charles F. Johnson contrasts Hezekiah's broadminded action with the narrow scruples of those chief priests and Pharisees who were intent upon putting Jesus Christ to death upon the cross at another feast of the Passover, and who would not venture into Pilate's judgment hall lest their holy feet should suffer defilement and make them unfit to share in the sacred feast of the Jewish Church.

The Royal Proclamation to Judah and Israel, verses 1 and 15. So a decree was issued for every one, from Beersheba to Dan, to come to Jerusalem and keep the Passover. The customary phrase for the length of the land was "from Dan to Beersheba," the chronicles, however, in writing the history of Judah naturally mentions the southern city first.

For the reform they had not kept the Passover in great numbers in such sort as it is written: see Isaiah 56:1, where the Jews who had been established throughout the land were to establish the supreme importance of the temple, so to write letters to Israel and Judah and sent them throughout the land by the posts, or couriers. His message was: "Ye children of Israel, turn again unto Jehovah, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and keep the Passover, the Hebrew fathers is common in the Old Testament; it served to remind the people of God's love to them in the past, that he may return to the present that are escaped of you out of the Assyrian invasion of Samaria had but recently happened and Hezekiah urged those who had not been carried away into captivity not to bring upon themselves the punishment that had just befallen their fathers: "Be not stiff-necked as your fathers were, but yield yourselves unto Jehovah, and enter into his sanctuary," he counselled.

Little Journeys In Science

INSECTS

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Insects are our greatest friends—and our greatest enemies. Some aid man and some harm him. Once in the history of the earth it appeared as if they might inherit the earth and gain control of it. Scientists have counted 340,000 different kinds of insects that are living to-day. Of this vast number man has domesticated and used the products of the labor of only one—the honeybee.

It is of interest to know that an insect that can crawl through the eye of a needle has a little heart and other organs. Insects reverse man's method and wear their skeletons outside. They are without lungs but air gets to every part of their bodies through a series of microscopic tubes. This system of obtaining air works so efficiently that it is doubted whether an insect's blood is ever impure.

In regard to intelligence, many an insect has more brain-power in proportion to its weight, than have human beings. A spider is a very expert bridge-builder. In Texas are found ants which clear the ground around their hills of all plants except those that produce such seeds as it wishes to eat. Bees have, in proportion to their weight much more intelligence than man. House-flies are not noted for their brain power but they are experts with their wings, which they flap 330 times a second; bumblebees, 240; wasps, 110; dragon-flies, 225; and butterflies, 9.

Among the most useful insects is the bee, which supplies honey, and in some countries produces bee bread for the support of human life. Silk-worms furnish material for clothing, and their culture is an important industry in many countries. The common wood ant is used extensively in Europe for the manufacture of vinegar. The cochineal insect supplies a valuable coloring material, while even the grub is used as a food in the West Indies.

Among the insects which are most harmful to man may be included the Hessian fly, potato bug, chinch bug, army worm, cotton boll weevil, cotton boll moth, and grasshopper, all of which attack growing crops.

University Trained Airmen

Oxford And Cambridge Pilots Join Royal Air Force

Britain is adding many hundreds of airplane pilots to her defenses, and there is plenty of evidence that no matter how many may be ordered in the future, there will be no lack of skilled pilots ready to take charge of them at once. In almost every city there is a flying club, besides which, the universities of Oxford and Cambridge have their own squadrons. Only 75 men can be trained at each, and there are always long waiting lists for vacancies.

Every year these squadrons undergo a period of attachment to the Royal Air Force at regular R.A.F. airfields, and function as fully qualified military pilots. At the end of the last term the Oxford squadron had turned out 249 finished pilots, having done 15,000 flying hours with, about anything more than minor mishaps, indicating the skill of the instructional staff and the quality of the machines.

Students are taught "blind" and ordinary flying. There is a mark of 100 points to aim at, 40 being for general proficiency, 30 for aerobatics or "stunt" flying, and 30 for forced landings.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

A violinist was very much disappointed by the account of his recital printed in the paper of a small town.

"I told you three times," complained the musician to the owner of the paper, "that the instrument I used was a genuine Stradivarius, and in fact, that it was not a word about it, not a word."

"That is as it should be. When the Stradivarius Company advertise their fiddles in my paper, under 10 cents a line, you can come round and tell me about it."

Not What He Meant

Two English tourists were standing gazing at Niagara Falls.

"Isn't it marvellous!" said one.

"Just magnificent. To stand here makes a man feel like a little grub."

"You're right," replied the other. "I've had nothing to eat since breakfast myself."

Young Farmer: "What happened to those meat puddings you made yesterday, Jack?"

Young Wife: "As you didn't like them, I gave them to the ducks."

Farmer: "So that's where my ducks have gone—they're sunk!"

REDUCING MADE HER LOOK YOUNGER

A Burden Of Fat Gone

Here is another case where the trim, slim figure of youth has displaced the coarse, fat figure of middle age. It is a housekeeper writing. She says:—

"I cannot say what weight I was, but I was very fat—a burden to myself. I have taken three bottles of Kruschen Salts, and now I am quite slender. I am over 40, and people take me for 40. I am more than proud of myself. You can take it from me that every word of this is true. I took a teaspoonful in hot water every morning till I had three bottles. Now I can take half a teaspoonful each morning. I cannot recommend the Kruschen Salts enough, for they are worth their weight in gold.—Mrs. A. H. Kruschen Salts combat the cause of fat by assisting the intestinal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

OCCASIONAL WIFE

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Worth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. After a party at an exclusive club, when the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the party, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Camilla urges Peter to accept some of her earnings to help him along, but Peter refuses and they quarrel. After Camilla has gone from the studio, Avis Worth calls and provides for Peter to accept a loan of $10,000. Peter finishes his exhibit and asks Avis and Camilla for suggestions as to a name for it. Camilla suggests "Bayer Youth" and Peter agrees. Peter adopts the latter title and Camilla, heartbroken, goes to Peter's studio for quiet and to think. Peter and Avis follow later, and as the lights are turned on, see the status has been shattered. Peter accuses Camilla of doing this, and Camilla, stunned by the disaster, and hurt and horrified by the accusation, faints.

At Camilla's suggestion, Peter enters as his exhibit a statue he had sculptured especially for her as a wedding gift. They named it "Land of Hope".

and Tiny Tots broadcast was a great success. Mr. Hoyt expressed his pleasure and surprise on learning that Camilla was the author and artist who was so ably stimulating business for his company.

Peter's exhibit was awarded the Paris scholarship, and he prepares for his journey to France. After the ship's departure from New York, he is on his way in his cabin when he meets Avis Worth. During the voyage Avis tells Peter that Camilla's scholarship exhibit in a time of temper, and he believes her.

CHAPTER LIX

Camilla did not recognize her visitor for a moment, so long had it been since their last meeting. But after an instant, she recalled his name. "Oh—Mr. Matson, good afternoon."

He extended his hand, even before she offered her in greeting, like the clumsy make-believe gentleman that he was. "The very same Camilla. Lord, but you look well!" His frank glance admired her from head to heel. "And no wonder! Didn't you just go up in a rocket to success? What do you think, I listen to every one of your broadcasts."

She smiled nervously. "It's nice to know that someone listens to me? If it is I'm frightfully busy, Mr. Matson."

"I'm not. I listen just to hear your voice."

Her manner became more aloof. "Is that what you came here to tell me? If it is I'm frightfully busy, Mr. Matson."

"Oh, see here, little fireworks, don't you get so peeved over a little thing like that. No, I came here to tell you something that I think you might like to hear. How about it?"

"Well," she waited.

"Just heard the other day that they accused you of destroying Peter's exhibit piece."

"Well—I didn't. And Peter knows that."

"Wasn't it that clawish cat, Avis Worth, who accused you of it?"

"What difference does it make if she did?"

"Just thought she might be able to convince him that you did."

"That's a silly thing to bring up now. Peter is on his way to Paris, for as you well know."

"So is Avis, and on the same boat. He watched her face closely for the effect, and was gratified with the result."

"She grew alarmingly white, as if she had been struck a terrible blow. Her head reeled sickeningly. But she rallied almost instantly and managed to reply bravely. 'That's a strange coincidence, isn't it? At least, Peter will have pleasant company on a short voyage.'"

"Lord, you're a brick, Camilla. I know what that gets you. You can't fool me. That is why I came here to help you, because I've always been crazy about you and can't bear to see you get a raw deal. Want to know who destroyed the statue?"

"She hesitated for a moment. 'It would be rather a relief to have the mystery solved.'"

"Well—I did it."

Her startled eyes met his with amazement. "You? But why—and why should you confess it to me?"

"One at a time, if you're going to give me the third degree. 'First, I've told you to give you a square deal. Reason given above. Next, I did it for two reasons: for revenge on Peter for a former insult, and to increase the possibility of my own success. There was no doubt that he was one of my best rivals. That eliminated his chances, I thought, and increased mine by one. The results proved that I was right there. I was the Nina Nelson whose 'Flight' was second and lost the scholarship. So Peter was my best rival, even with a substitute entry." He laughed harshly. "I may even have bettered his chances by what I did, and hurt my own. Well, he won. Oh, yes—one thing more. You will wonder how I did it. I slipped upstairs into his studio that night of the party, and was listening in the lower hall when they were discovered there. I thought it was a lucky break for me." He paused.

"But I still don't understand why you are telling me. No one ever suspected you. Don't you know that I could have any arrested?"

"You won't," he said confidently. "Neither would Peter. After all, I have to admit that he's one swell guy. Besides, he won. Oh, yes—one thing more. You will wonder how I did it. I slipped upstairs into his studio that night of the party, and was listening in the lower hall when they were discovered there. I thought it was a lucky break for me." He paused.

"Peter can have all the Paris scholarships he wants—me for the good old green. I only wanted to go to Paris to tide over the depression, anyway. First crack after the exhibit, one of the big money kings buys my 'Flight' and gives me an order to do a larger copy for the entrance to the airport. Then I almost collapsed when fortune threw her arms around me again, and a poverty stricken bought the patent on some little modernistic figure that he will manufacture by thousands to put in the five-and-dime stores. What do you say, is that a break or isn't it?"

Her face lighted with genuine admiration. "Indeed it is, and I'm awfully glad for you. I hate to think that you could do a thing like that to Peter—but since it came out all right, there must have been some reason in the whole plan. I'm glad you told me about it, Gus. I appreciate that it does mean something to me. It would have been a dreadful mystery to have hanging over us for all our lives. But don't be revengeful and petty like that again, will you?" Camilla implored him.

"Not of your life, I won't. Me for the straight and narrow—and prosperity."

"I hope it continues for you," she smiled. "You have some fine things in you to develop, I'm sure."

"Gee, but you're sweet. Tell you what, I might even write you a statement of confession to show to Peter sometime, if you will promise me to burn it right away after he reads it. I don't care to have incriminating evidence like that around."

"You don't need to do that. If you want me to tell Peter, I shall. He will believe me, of course. And he will be relieved to know how it happened. I'm sure he never believed that I did it, anyway."

"Well, I'd advise you to keep your eye on Avis Worth."

Camilla laughed with a deprecating gesture. "Avis doesn't worry me." But she did not believe what she said, and when Gus Matson had gone, she sat huddled over her drawing board in abject misery and despair. Her thoughts leaped the expanse of land and ocean which divided them, and she envisioned Avis and Peter on the boat together for hours and days.

Then Peter—a stranger and a novice; and Avis as familiar with the city, the customs, the language, as at home. Avis: seductive, amorous, subtle, confident, with everything to her advantage. Angry tears stung in her eyes.

After a night of restless pacing the decks and turning in his upper berth, Peter emerged to a victory over his emotions. With bitter regret and angry resentment, he had slain love; and now looked upon the results dispassionately. Never again would he give rein to his emotions. Never again could he or he would permit himself to love anyone as he had loved Camilla. Work and success were all that made life worth while, anyway.

He would devote every moment, every effort, every emotion to those elements. He would be hard and cold and grasping like the rest of the world—take what he wanted when he wanted it, accept what pleased his fancy, ignore all obligations to sentiment. He suspected that was the creed of all successful men—and women. Well, he would join their ranks.

He thought of Avis with a mounting sense of appreciation and gratitude. He had her to thank for so many things; his first love, his first influence in his life by the interests of John Danforth, even the truth about Camilla's unforgivable act.

Three more days of such stern reasoning and gradual resignation to this new creed had done much for Peter's state of mind. Avis had calmly observed this very obvious change and took advantage of it gradually.

She increased her personal attentions to him; made little intimate ventures which became more pronounced as the days passed slowly; played upon her conviction that no matter how much a man renounces love, he is the eternal lover and recipient of love, that he cannot subside without some demonstration of his emotional forces. She flattered and entangled him, exerted herself to be attractive and desirable.

All unconsciously, Peter's attention and ardor transferred themselves to Avis, and almost before he was aware of what was happening, he found himself caught up and hurried along by the mighty force of his desires. Her nearness tantalized him, maddened him; until on that last magic evening of moonlight and sea breeze, when the emotions were strangely alive and alert with the anticipation of the morning's landing, he found his lips pressed to hers, himself holding her intoxicating fragrance in his arms, and all else oblivion.

"But—that man you love," he finally reminded her.

"That man—is you, Peter darling," she confessed.

He was dazed. "Oh—I begin to see light."

She laughed softly. "Dear Peter, you are simply too good to be true. Now that you know—that are you going to do about it?"

"I don't know," he confessed dejectedly.

After a little while, she consoled him. "Oh, well, why think about that now? Tonight is tonight. Tomorrow is another day. Tomorrow, we reach Paris. There is so much to be done. You are going to be very busy. But we can see each other often, and when you are settled, we can have such glorious times together—while we wait."

She did not say what they would be waiting for, but it hung in the air between them.

His silence seemed to be an acceptance of her plan.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

THE MAN WHO DREAMS

Who is so wrong as the man who dreams, Trading the real for the thing which seems.

Shaping the days in the mold of his need, Building a world for his whim or his creed?

Who is so foolish, so futile as he, Taking the place of reality?

Weakly and cowardly well-content With a toy in place of the world God meant?

Waiting, while months and years slip past, Lying in a net that holds him fast.

Snug and sound in the web of his dream, Lacking the truth of creation's scheme.

Missing the zest of eager strife, The sweat and toil that are part of life.

Lacking in triumph and mastery, Who is so cheated and foiled as he?

Persia Cleared Of Beggars

Incurables Sent To Institutions And Able-Bodied Must Work

By a ministerial edict all beggars have been swept off the streets of Persian towns and even from the courtyards of mosques where for centuries since Islam entered the country they have begged for alms.

The lame, the blind and the insane, have been sent to institutions. The able bodied have been put to work on the new railroad with the option of going to prison with hard labor for three years. For the work they do they are paid the minimum wage permitted by the state schedule for labor.

Only those who know the East can appreciate the scope of this reform. In Teheran, which has a population of 300,000, there were 22,000 beggars organized into fraternities, guilds and corporations sometimes dating back to the foundation of the city.

Islam forbade any interference with beggars on the grounds that alms are the surest road to paradise. The shah had to tread warily for the mosque courtyard was the beggars' chosen pitch, and the precincts of the mosque have always been sanctuary.

The sovereign determined to make religion see reason, and therefore persuaded the mujtahid of Isfahan, the highest Moslem dignitary, to send a chaplain to accompany him on an incognito tour of beggary.

The chaplain, after for himself the enormity of the racket. In due course the mujtahid issued his fiat: "It is good to help the poor. It is evil to rob the poor."

The beggars of this town are guilty of robbing the poor and must therefore be driven from the sacred precincts of mosques.

The mujtahid, a wise and learned doctor of Islamic law, also ruled that the Koran enjoined that the insane, the blind, the lame, and the sick should be treated with respect and consideration as being "afflicted by the most high God." It was not possible to respect them in the public places, and therefore they must be put away and tended.

Under-Sea Experience

Deep Sea Divers Are Blinded By Flashlight Explosion

Blinded and injured by a premature flashlight explosion, two members of the New York Zoological Society's deep-sea expedition spent an uncomfortable five minutes down around the bottom of the sea at Bermuda.

For several minutes after the blinding explosion, Dr. William Beebe and his assistant, Otis Barton, could only grope aimlessly around the interior of the great steel ball in which they had been lowered 1,600 feet below the surface.

Sealed in their bathysphere, they had gone down to take photographs of strange sea monsters at that depth. But a short circuit exploded their four flashlight bulbs simultaneously—instead of singly—and their picture-taking was suspended.

By the time the explorers had been hauled back to the surface they had recovered their sight fully and were none the worse for their experience.

THE AUTHORITIES

ARE TO BLAME

The terrible motor accident in Calgary on Sunday morning last brings home to one the absolute necessity of the authorities taking over and controlling the speed of automobiles and trucks in Alberta, whether in city, towns or on the highway. We know and realize that the present day cars are built for a speed up to 100 miles an hour, and we also know there are many crazy speed fanatics who even then want to drive them at 120 miles an hour. If these so called speed demons want to show their skill and daring let them have a track all to themselves. They should not be allowed to endanger the lives of others, who may be getting a real enjoyment out of motoring by travelling along at 20 or 40 miles an hour. Only last week, one well known expert driver had a big writeup in the dailies that he travelled from Calgary to Portland at an average speed of nearly seventy miles an hour, with his wife and baby accompanying him. He frankly admitted that for many, many miles he was exceeding ninety miles an hour, and instead of being punished for such speeding on a public highway, he is glorified, praised for his skill and daring. If that man had had a blow-out, going at that speed, with another car happening to pass at the time, all his skill, all his knowledge of driving could not have prevented an accident. Of course, they'll say, "but they were guaranteed tires." Guaranteed tires do not prevent fatal accidents. It's generally the innocent that have to suffer in these accidents, as is well proven by the fatal occurrence on Sunday last.

Surely the authorities, with all the power in their hands, can make rules and regulations governing the speed of automobiles. It may seem old womanish and out of date to come back to forty miles an hour again, but it's far better than a short ride to the grave.

It's up to the government to act immediately.—Social Credit Chronicle.

MORALS AND SWEEPS

A Puritan-minded majority in the Canadian House of Commons has decreed that gambling in sweepstakes is immoral, that it is not conducive to the making of good citizens, and that the people must be protected from its evil influence.

And what do we find?

Hardly a day passes when we are not approached by a ticket salesman who offers to sell us a ticket on a sweep in Vancouver, in Toronto, in Winnipeg, in Ireland, or in any one of a score of places.

The government's refusal to legalize sweeps is not having an ounce of influence on the morals of the people. The public is "sweep-minded," thousands of persons in every province are buying tickets, and the sweeps are doing a thriving business.

Many of the sweeps are conducted in foreign countries and large sums of Canadian money are leaving Canada, never to return.

The members of parliament must know this, and knowing it, it is difficult to understand why they do not legalize sweeps in Canada and thus curtail the outflow of Canadian money for foreign sweeps.

Such a move would divert a considerable sum of money to the Dominion treasury, an addition that would be most welcome by the minister of finance.

Hospitals and other institutions would derive immense benefit from the legalization of sweeps as they have in other countries, and the greater social service they could give would far outweigh any hypothetical moral uplift the banning of sweeps is supposed to give.—Banana Mail.

THE STORY OF THE

THREE MOUSETRAPS

This story is so good that I'm not going to preach a sermon over it. However, the next time anyone tries to "string you along" with that old chestnut about his line selling cheaper because his firm does not spend a lot of money in advertising, just remember the story of the three mouse traps.

In a certain town, three firms were manufacturing mouse traps. Their manufacturing costs were just about the same and they each did about an equal amount of business.

The traps cost 15 cents to make; sold to the dealer at 20 cents, and were sold to the customer at 30 cents. Each manufacturer made 5 cents per trap, or 33 1/3 per cent profit on his turnover. Each dealer made 10 cents, or 50 per cent profit. Each dealer, of course, carried all three traps, for there was about an equal demand for each.

One day one manufacturer made up his mind to spend 1 cent per trap in advertising. This reduced his profit to 4 cents a trap. He did not advance his prices and neither did the dealers.

He started his advertising and kept it up for two years. During this time the other two manufacturers kept on taking their 5 cents per trap and quietly laughed at the "poor advertiser."

During the second year, however, a popular demand "seemed" to arise for this advertised trap. The manufacturer actually found demand getting ahead of production. In seeking to keep up with it he installed new machinery and found out that under improved methods and with quantity production he could turn out just as good a trap at a cost of 9 cents as formerly cost him 15 cents. So he reduced his selling price from 20 cents to 15 cents, and the dealer reduced his from 30 to 25 cents. Even at this reduced price you will see that the manufacturer now made 50 per cent on his turnover as against the old profit of 33 1/3 per cent, and the dealer made 66 2/3 per cent as against 50 per cent before.

Naturally, the two other firms couldn't compete on price, so they went out of business. The dealer found he only had to tie up one-third as much capital to stock the one brand as he used to tie up to carry the three makes on his shelves?

Now—who paid for the advertising? Did the manufacturer? If you say "yes," how do you account for the fact that he reduced his selling price 6 cents per trap and still increased his gross profit from 33 1/3 per cent to 50 per cent.

Did the dealer pay for it? If you think so, how do you reconcile your opinion with the fact that he reduced his selling price from 30 cents to 25 cents and increased his profit from 50 cents to 66 2/3 per cent?

Did the consumer pay for it? Obviously not, for he now got as good a trap for 25 cents as he used to get for 30 cents.

It looks like a case of money being spent and nobody to pay for it, doesn't it? If we look close, however, we will find that the men who really paid for the advertising were the two manufacturers who did not advertise.

The number of mice in that town remained just about the same, and so did the number of traps sold per year. But every time either of these firms lost an account it went over to the manufacturer who advertised. This steady increase in business enabled him to buy cheaper (because he bought his raw material in larger quantities), to manufacture cheaper (because of better machinery, standardized methods, etc.), and to sell cheaper (because each salesman now sold three traps where he formerly sold one).—From The Country Guide.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS TELL STORY OF "THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS OF YORE"

Some time ago a young woman wrote to one of our contemporaries and asked if he could get some information about what she called "the good old days." She had often heard her grandmother tell of transpirings in her day, she said, and how people, particularly women, dressed, but being born in this modern age treated granny's recordings more as a fable than actual fact.

Here are some of the occurrences of "the good old days" as this newspaper unearthed them:

Ladies wore bustles.
Monday was washday.

There were no flappers.
Nobody had appendicitis.

There was no traffic cop.
There were no Bolsheviks.

Everybody played croquet.
Nobody worked but father.

Men sported wiry whiskers.
Cream was five cents a pint.

Ice cream was "iced" cream.
Boys' shoes were copper toed.

Nobody was ashamed to walk.
No one was fined for speeding.

Vitamin gauges were unknown.
Saturday night was bath night.

Milk shake was a popular drink.
Wednesdays weren't cigarettes.

Only little girls wore short skirts.
Only small boys wore short pants.

Doctors wanted to see you tongue.
Nobody was told, "This line is busy."

Neither men nor women played golf.
Whiskey was fifty cents a quart bottle.

The lively stable was the social circle.
Farmers came to town for their mail.

Nobody cared for the price of gasoline.
Only lumberjacks rolled their stockings.

No one had to look for a parking place.
Chickens all went to roost at sundown.

Beer was five cents a glass, including lunch.
A good cigar set you back a whole nickel.

The sheiks all lived in Arabia or Turkey.
Shows in the Town Hall came only so often.

Paper and celluloid collars were popular.
Food stuffs came in bulk, not in packages.

Women wore bathing dresses, not undresses.
Candies for the girl cost her fellow fifteen cents a bag.

School teachers "licked" pupils good.
The loyish form was displayed only by the boy.

Ladies used side saddles, not the whole road.
A girl was mostly bustle behind, not hostile ahead.

Statistics were merely a mathematical study at school.
They were days mostly—everything over at 10 p.m.

No one had to listen to a saxophone, thank goodness.
Everybody went to church, or to sleep, on Sunday.

Girls set their caps—not their kneecaps—for a man.
Oyster suppers and church socials were twenty-five cents a throw.

Moving pictures happened only at housecleaning time.
Females all wore corsets—at least we think they did.

The hired girl drew $1.50 a week and did the washing.
They bobbed their hair only after they got you in jail.

The melodeon—not the radio—supplied the family music.
The family Bible and family album were popular institutions.

Everyone in the family took a shower and molasses each spring.
They didn't have to hire a husky man to teach the b-ys how to play.

The hired man got a dollar a day for 'teen hours—and earned it, too.

Ladies' clubs were the Ladies' Aid, Sewing Circle and rolling pin.

Milk was delivered into your own pitcher from the dealer's tin measure.

There were no crooners, except mother when she rocked her restless baby to sleep.

Women's skirts trailed as much material below their feet as they don't now above.

People used to arise and retire on the same day; now they retire and arise on the same day.

Boys were boys, and girls were girls, but nowadays mother and grandmother are girls also.

High flyers used to "take a drop" often, now they take off and take a drop only once.

People took tonic when they were run down; now they usually take an ambulance or hearse.

The most prominent part of an attractive girl was the bustle and frill, now it's the hustle and thrill.

Young people turned in at nine p.m.; now they tune in, and don't turn in until the next morning.

Man wanted but little here below; now it's the woman who not only wants it but wears it also.

Girls wore many worthy mentionables, and now they wear hardly anything worth mentioning.

There were no paid street cleaners; women pedestrians' trailing skirts did the job free and plenty.

Father got most of his outdoor exercises with the family horse, the saw-horse and shank's mare.

"Step-in" was merely an offhand neighboring invitation preliminary to a social glass or two or three.

Ladies' stockings were on general view only in the dry goods stores and on the family wash line.

Mary's little lamb finally got into a stew; now Mary's little calf sometimes gets her into a "stew," too.

The seven Sutherland sisters with their seven-foot long hair were the envy of womankind the world over.

Daughters always helped their mothers to prepare dinner, but now they're not usually home even to help eat it.

Mother used to put on more clothes when she disrobed to go to bed than her daughter now does when she dresses to go out.

The right way of living lengthened many a man's days; nowadays the right-of-way living shortens many another man's days.

Women, when fully doted up, wore about twenty-nine pounds of clothing; now they display their charms in only a few ounces of "Axin's."

The butcher then "threw in" the heart and the liver free; now he sells it for thirty cents a pound and throws in his thumb when he's weighing it.—Ex.

An Alberta weekly paper still claims it's edited by a man who passed on several years ago. And it gives his phone number, but not his present address.

And still they come. Last week we mentioned the fact that daily we have visits from former Pass citizens who have called in in passing through on vacation. This week they are still coming, among the latest being A. G. (Bert) Cooper, former accountant in the Union Bank here, now residing in Calgary. Bert left Blairmore in 1912, this being his first visit since. Also Dr. and Mrs. E. Hunt, of Bollingham, who spent the greater part of Monday here. Mrs. Hunt was formerly Miss Lucy Hinds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hinds, who now reside at Ferndale, Washington.

Irene McLeod, aged 10 years, was accidentally shot in her home at Carbondale on Sunday. Her brother, William, saw a rabbit in the vicinity of the house and loaded a .22 rifle to shoot it, but it had disappeared and he left the rifle standing against the wall of one of the rooms. Irene tripped against the rifle, which discharged, the bullet entering her abdomen and taking an upward course, lodging in her breast, from where it was extracted by the doctors who performed an operation at the Coleman Miners' hospital.

QUALIFICATIONS OF MEN ELIGIBLE FOR PROV. SINGLE RELIEF

1.—A man who may be considered for SINGLE RELIEF is a homeless man, who has resided in the province for a continuous period of twelve months from July 1, 1933. This date is suggested so as to allow for those travelling to and from Alberta to Saskatchewan and Manitoba, doing harvest work. Many make a practise of going to these eastern provinces and work west along with the harvest season.

2.—A man sent to a relief camp from Alberta to British Columbia, or to any camp in Alberta, will be allowed this time against the twelve-month period.

3.—Residence cannot be established at any point while on relief. The municipality a man resides in, when self-supporting, for a period of more than three months, shall be considered his bonafide residence.

4.—A man spending only a few months at a time in Alberta over a period of years, and keeps on going to neighboring provinces for the other part of the year, leaves him in the transient category. As such, he must obtain his relief in work camps of the National Defence.

5.—The onus of proof of residence rests upon the man himself, and he shall be required to supply names and addresses of the most recent employers, camp numbers or personal references. Such evidence must be to the satisfaction of the relief officer.

6.—"Homeless Unemployed physically fit" men, are those whom the authorized examining doctors may pass as being physically and mentally fit to perform laboring work, and whose physical condition is such as to enable them to provide for themselves if work were available. Such men are the full responsibility of the Dominion Government. Before relief is applied for, they shall be detest in making application. These men are to be known as Category "A".

7.—"Homeless Unemployed physically unfit" are such men who are by reason of any illness, not approved by an authorized medical doctor as being unfit for only such work as comes under the National Defence. There are many of this type who would be able to do lighter outside or inside work. Such men are to be known as Category "B".

8.—Men who are unfit for any kind of work and require diets, medical attention, convalescence, rest and quietness, are to be known as Category "C", because they are unemployable.

9.—A single man is an "unmarried male," nineteen years of age or over.

10.—Unemployed shall mean those who have no resources NOR CREDIT, and are unable to provide for themselves through lack of gainful occupation.

11.—If any officer considers, from the rules set forth, an applicant's case deserves, other consideration, such officer should then apply to the supervisor at Calgary, or his assistant at Edmonton, for ruling.

Now that such splendid work has been done by the present town council under the able foremanship of Mr. Packer, the suggestion has been made—and a good one, too—that the town should take over the arena and have same placed in proper repair for the winter season. The arena could become one of the town's most valuable assets, as well as a very necessary utility. Combined with the arena could be a modern swimming pool, the cost of which need not be very great.

Shortage of crops in parts of Canada, coupled with activities of speculators in these commodities, has led the Dominion government to regulate export by license. An order-in-council has been passed, under powers conferred by the new marketing act, providing that licenses must be obtained for all export shipments of hay or straw. Embodied in the order is a list of regulations governing the shipment of these commodities.

PRESENTATION MADE TO REV. FATHER COSMAN BY HIS PARISHIONERS

Drumheller loses one of its best public spirited citizens, a man honored and respected by all classes and creeds in the community, Rev. Father Cosman. In a very special manner will his loss be felt, in St. Anthony's Parish, where for the past seven years, he has labored and seen success crown his every effort, bringing the parish up to its present high standard. The children's farewell took place at 2:30 p.m., the church being filled with the graduate and present pupils of the Sunday school. During a short social interval, Rev. Father provided once more "the treats," well filled bags of nuts and candies, and a little spiritual memento were distributed to all. Following Benediction, "A Spiritual Bouquet" and an "Address" on behalf of the children was presented, which expressed not only their heartfelt affection for one who had been untiring in his efforts to give them a thorough christian education, but also a promise of their prayers and good wishes for continued success, health and happiness. Both the Spiritual Bouquet and Address were beautifully adorned with "Forget-me-Nots," truly symbolic of the occasion. Another little gift by the children was the presentation of their own purse, collected and donated by themselves.

At 7:30 p.m. the church was again filled to capacity. After the service, a committee on behalf of the parishioners presented the Rev. Father with an address, expressing sadness and regret at the "parting of the Ways." A true spiritual Father, whose life was one of regular, self-sacrificing devotion to duty. His work among the children was assured the everlasting gratitude and blessing of their parents. As a little tangible expression of the sincerity, love and esteem of the congregation, a purse was also presented. The reverend pastor, before giving his final blessing, admonished his people to remain true and faithful always to the high ideals of life he had at all times endeavored to hold before them. The prayers and best wishes of his people follow Father Cosman into his new field of labor at Strathmore, where he will commence his duties Sunday, September 2nd.—Drumheller Review.

J. E. Gillis returned Sunday from Detroit, where he attended the big conference of the supreme council of the Knights of Columbus. At Detroit, Mr. Gillis met with Ralph Thompson, formerly of Frank, and Robert B. Bartlett, formerly of Blaimore; and also came into contact with a distant relative in the person of Judge Gillis. Enroute home, Mr. Gillis visited Mayo Brothers' clinic at Rochester, where his foot was examined and declared to be recovering well.

Local and General Items

Word has been received from Mr. Ernest Desautels, of Montreal, manager for the annual tour of the Scottish Players, who delighted so many at Coleman on their visits last winter, that he will have the routing of the company completed in about another week. They will again visit Coleman.

A substantial reward is offered for information that will lead to the conviction of the person who deliberately defaced newly painted walls and door of the postoffice on Sunday last. There is reason to believe that the party was not alone when the silly trick was pulled.

The world's biggest ship, the 73,000-ton Cunard-White Star liner, known merely as No. 534, will be launched and christened on September 26th. The ship's drag-chains will weigh 1000 tons, the rudder 140 tons, and the four propellers 35 tons each.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Howe, of Blaimore, arrived in Kimberley last Thursday and will make their home here in future. Mr. and Mrs. Howe are both prominent in basketball circles in the Crow, and it is expected Mr. Howe will coach the Kimberley team this year.—Kimberley Courier.

Mrs. Meaney is just beginning to know the trials of cooking. It appears Hughie asked her the other night what happened to the sausages. The newly-married wife answered that she had been told by Mrs. McCay to fry them like fish, and when she had cleaned them, there wasn't much left.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Macleod on Monday, August 27th, when Mildred Victoria, youngest daughter of Mrs. J. E. and the late J. E. Easterbrook, of Cowley, was united in marriage to James Emerson Redden, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Redden, of Shoultice Park, Calgary.

To someone or other it's always subscription time at The Enterprise office. Drop in and let us make some equitable arrangement to bring your subscription up to date if it is behind. Our obligations are as pressing as yours, and it may be the old-fashioned plan of barter-and-trade will help us both.

A gentleman from Coleman yesterday made some comment on the elaborate improvements being made in and around Blaimore through the efforts of the town council. He was particularly interested in the Tim Buck boulevard, stating that if properly cared for, next season we should see roses, asters, geraniums, dahlias, tulips, hyacinths, etc., all growing on the one plant; apples, peaches, pears, plums and apricots.—Drumheller Mail.

ALBERTA TAXATION INQUIRY BOARD

Public sittings of the Board appointed to make inquiry into the taxation now imposed by the Province and by Municipal and other similar authorities, will be held at central points in the Province on dates to be announced later.

Those desirous of making representations before the Board at such sittings are requested to advise the Secretary on or before September 15, 1934, and anyone wishing to submit personal representations will please forward same to the undersigned.

growing on the same tree, and raspberries, gooseberries, currants, Saskatoon and Oregon grapes on the same bushes. "All the horticulturists of the continent will be taking pilgrimages to Blaimore next summer," he said.

During this month, the East Kootenay district will have official visits from E. C. Turner, of New Westminster, grand master of the Independent Order of Oddfellows for the B.C. province, and Mrs. Lillian M. Trethewey, of Vancouver, president of the provincial Rebekah Assembly. The grand master's itinerary brings him to Michel tomorrow night, and at Cranbrook on Monday night.

Many of our readers have no doubt noticed the advertisement in The Country Gentleman which reads, "A nice powderpuff and initialled compact in the back seat of the car will delight your wife." It didn't work so well with a Blaimore husband last Wednesday night, when his wife found a well used powderpuff in the back seat of the car, and the initials on the compact were those of another woman. At the time of going to press today, it looks as though the magistrate will have to try the case.

G. Powell motored to Medicine Hat, Sunday, to meet Mrs. Powell and daughter, Miss Mabel, who recently returned from a month's visit to Chicago. Mrs. Powell was a delegate from the Alberta Grand Temple of Pythian Sisters to the Supreme Temple convention, which was held at the Palm Beach hotel. Following the convention, they spent several days at the Century of Progress exhibition and returned via Minneapolis, where they visited friends for a few days.—Drumheller Mail.

Decline in Cheese Exports

Canada Is Losing Market of United Kingdom

What has happened to Canada's exports of cheese to the market of the United Kingdom is clearly indicated in a statement of the Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa that during the first six months of the present year shipments of cheese to that market actually fell to fifth place with only 30,842 cwt. being forwarded across the Atlantic. In contrast with this, New Zealand remained in first place in the British market with 1,216,700, Australia being second with 67,000, the Netherlands third with 61,099 and Italy fourth with 50,928. Two years ago, for the corresponding period, Canada was in third place, coming behind New Zealand and Holland, and prior to the war Canada's supply of cheese to Great Britain was more than double that of New Zealand.

A further statement of the Bureau reports that during the year 1933 Canada's production of factory cheese experienced a further drop, totalling 111,044,522 pounds, or eight per cent. The total value of the cheese made was $11,113,918, a decrease of two per cent, the average factory price per pound having advanced, from 9.44 cents in 1932 to 10.01 cents in 1933. On the other hand, the production of creamery butter in the Dominion rose to 218,532,307 pounds, an increase over the preceding year of two per cent.

It is evident that Canada is continuing to lose her grip upon the British cheese market, and, unless she makes supreme, and if things continue at the present rate it will be only a matter of time before she has been swept off that market by the force of New Zealand's competition—Brookville Recorder and Times.

Discover New Rays

Eight Death-Dealing Rays Discovered By Woman Scientist

Eight death-dealing rays of ultra-violet light have been identified by Dr. Florence E. Meier, young woman scientist of the Smithsonian Institution.

The work completed by Miss Meier, hailed as a valuable addition to the important study of animal reactions to various rays, reveals the new killer rays as black sheep of the normally beneficent violet ray group, which are known to cure rickets.

Humans would not be slain by the newly discovered rays, but they are certain plants that grow in lakes and rivers.

Or Even A Horse

"Automobile owners will leave their vehicles unlocked with keys at hand and then complain to the police when someone borrows or steals them," remarks the St. Thomas Times-Journal. Well, why should it be necessary to lock a car, and not a horse and buggy? asks the Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Soviet Claims Scouted

Claims from Moscow that Russia had surpassed second place among the world's gold producing countries, superceding Canada, has been received with almost universal skepticism. Apparently, the statement has been interpreted as just another of those efforts in propaganda with which Soviet authorities key their nationals to further sacrifices, but which singularly fail to impress the outside world.

During progress of the first five year plan, Moscow deluged the world with claims of amazing achievement, which, now that the ardors of the period have subsided, are being assessed at their true worth. There is no gaining the great advances made in certain industries, particularly the so-called heavy industries, under the program initiated by Lenin and carried into effect by Stalin. In some instances these have been spectacular, but (and this is the rub) seldom have they been quite as significant or outstanding as the claims made concerning them.

Several of the leading magazines and newspapers of Britain and America are devoting considerable space to reviewing the Soviet industrial and agricultural achievement. These have been equitable, particularly the probably based upon the true facts, for truth and not antagonistic propaganda is what the public seeks these days. The claims made on behalf of socialist endeavor by proponents of Socialism of the Russian variety, apparently do not stand the test of statistical investigation. Alan Monkhouse, one of the British engineers sacrificed for propaganda purposes in the notorious sabotage trials of a year or so ago, in a book of his experiences in Russia is surprisingly sympathetic to the Soviet plan, and in the light of the circumstances preceding his deportation. Paying some attention to the statistical record of industrial achievement, he shows that the Soviet government's own figures in specialized lines such as house building do not compare favorably with similar achievements in capitalist and individualist England, recorded at the same time. He cites several particulars in which Soviet authorities claimed to have out-distanced their degenate and collapsing capitalist contemporaries, which are not substantiated by the facts.

Apparently, the same is true of the gold production, backed by Russia threats that, having overtaken Canada they will shortly overtake and pass South Africa in production of the precious metal. In reply to this, Canadian mining authorities maintain that, while undoubtedly Russia has been creeping up in production, it has not yet surpassed Canada as ranking second in production of newly mined gold. Much of the Russian gold, it is claimed, was withdrawn from hoarding and, therefore, it is old gold reclaimed.

South Africans scoff at what they term a bombastic claim, and have no fear of losing premier place among the world's gold producers. This contention is backed by Dr. P. S. Nazarov, formerly a famous Russian geologist and now a fugitive from the Bolsheviks. His statement, based on actual knowledge of the various Russian goldfields and not upon political bias, is to the effect that nowhere in Russia do gold-laden bodies occur with the regularity and in the volume seen on the Rand in South Africa. "If Russian gold fields ever reach the stage of providing competition for South Africa it will be at tremendous cost of time and labor of transportation," he concludes.

Salvaging Gold From Chimney

U.S. Assay Office Reclaims It From The Street

Since the U.S. government devaluated the dollar, almost doubling the dollar value of every scrap of gold, the Assay office in New York has been using every conceivable precaution in its melting room to conserve the metal. The Assay office is housed in a relatively new building, white and severe, at the corner of Old Slip and South Street. One of its important installations is called a fume precipitator—in reality, a series of metal sleeves, each plumed by a chain. Alternating currents are run through the chains and the sleeves; and, as smoke passes up the chimney, the soot particles, containing minute quantities of gold, are dashed from the air by this electric barrage, and fall to the bottom of the run. This precious residue is collected once or twice a year by men who go into the basin of the chimney and shovel it out. The Assay office realizes $10,000 to $15,000 on the sale of gold reclaimed from chimney soot. Even the dust on the walls is collected for gold.

Easy To Remember

The debate over "I" and "me" goes on unendingly, but there is one thing that we ought to stop. It is the phrase, "between you and I." If the people who use it would reverse the pronouns and say "between I and you," they might learn to use the correct form, but every day we hear from the most unexpected sources the heart-rending "between you and I." The correct form, of course, is "between you and me."

Was In Two Rebellions

Alberta Veteran Carried Despatches For General Strang

In Alberta 50 years ago, when highwaymen were just fading from the western frontier with the coming of the first Northwest Mounted Police, and when Indians were still on the warpath often, Charles F. Stewart drove the mail stage. Now 69 and retired, he lives at Edmonton.

Native of the prairies, he saw two rebellions at first hand. Son of the chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Co., he was a lad of eight and lived a few miles below Fort Garry (later Winnipeg) in the troubled days of the first Red River rebellion. He can recall seeing the soldiers coming up the Red river. As a youth of 20, when the mails were stopped by the Saskatchewan rebellion of 1885, he went on the courier line, carrying despatches for General Strang's Alberta field force. He made several trips on horseback between Saddle Lake and Fort Pitt.

His predecessor on the mail job, Peter Campbell, was on the driver's seat when the Calgary coach was held up and the mails robbed by highwaymen in the only case of its kind in this part of the west.

It was no picturesque coach that was in use in 1891 but a lumber wagon with an open centre for package freight and a closed cabin on the rear that accommodated six passengers. An average of 40 miles of trail was covered each day by the plodding team and numerous creeks and streams were forded en route.

Proposed Tax On Noise

Idea Of British Minister Of Transport May Save Nerves

A tax on noise is proposed to save the nerves of the people of the United Kingdom. It is thought that taxation may succeed where all appeals have failed in the matter of unnecessary noise, and the suggestion of a tax was made in a letter from Leslie Hore-Belisha, minister of transport, which was read at a conference of the Anti-Noise League at Oxford. "All new heavy motor cars put on the road since January, 1933, have to be fitted with pneumatic tires," he wrote, "and the scales of taxation have been so framed as to give a strong incentive to people to substitute pneumatic tires on existing vehicles. The heavy vehicle on solid tires which caused so much unnecessary noise in the past is rapidly disappearing."

"Regulations also forbid the use of motor vehicles and trailers which have caused excessive noise, and the sounding of horns on stationary vehicles."

"The road traffic bill proposed further to prohibit the use of the horn in prescribed hours and zones of silence. Mr. Hore-Belisha said in the order to gain exact knowledge of what really causes noise the ministry has invoked the best scientific assistance. He expressed the hope the motor manufacturing industry would co-operate with the government in a determined effort to find a remedy for present unnecessary and harmful noises."

Rebuilding Viking Boat

Oak Timbers Intact After Being Submerged Three Years

A Viking boat has been "reconditioned" at Danzig, after one thousand years. Workmen engaged in digging a ditch at Oliva found the remains of the boat only five feet beneath the surface of the ground. The sturdy oak planks of which the boat was originally built had defied the ravages of time so successfully that it has been possible to reconstruct the vessel in its entirety. The boat is thirty feet long, with places for eighteen oarsmen. Iron nails had been used in the making, as well as wooden pegs. Parts of the gunwales, with the original rowlocks, have survived, and much of the moss with which the seams were packed to make them water-tight is still in place.

Wine must come from a limited area of France to be legally called champagne.

Talk About Economy

Two Towns In Bulgaria Have Everything Else Began

There is a legend current in the picturesque little Balkan town of Panagurishite that when God once was bestowing his gifts, he allotted close-fistedness to the inhabitants of two towns—Gabrovo and Panagurishite, straining it more generously on the latter because of its weird and unpronounceable name.

On that account the parsimoniousness of either town has become proverbial. And they are dire rivals in that respect to this day. In both localities men do not shave their heads, being too expensive a matter, but singe them by various devices which makes the beard stay smooth. In both towns families make use of but one spoon or fork, passing either of them around when taking their meals which they argue, saves extra labor, and what is more important, food lasts longer, as each member of the household thus must await another turn for a mouthful.

The aged people here, when talking of eating presents one from overeating, saves him from indigestion and many other stomach ailments; they assert, to the use of too many spoons, forks, knives, and too many dishes.

In both towns hats and shoes are considered a superfluous luxury, which may be resorted to only in winter and on holidays. And even on those occasions people often prefer carrying their hats and shoes in their hands to save labor and wear.

Million Miles Her Objective

Elderly Woman Traveller Expects To Make Real Record

An interesting old lady who can probably lay good claim to the title of world's champion traveller is Mrs. Ella C. Munson of East Rockaway, Long Island, who has sailed from Montreal to take the Saguenay district to her list of places visited. Mrs. Munson has travelled close to 700,000 miles and at 72, hopes to bring her total to 1,000,000.

In all her travels, which include 53 trips across the Atlantic and 10 across the Pacific, Mrs. Munson has never encountered a severe storm nor an accident. She has tried almost every known method of transportation, including transients, elephants and rickshaws, but has never yet been in a plane. Only one thing could induce her to fly, she said, and that was an invitation from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to go up with him.

Mrs. Munson's trips are seldom planned in advance. She stays at home until the urge to travel comes, then she packs her trunks and is off. "I can get ready to go around the world in 24 hours," she said.

Mrs. Munson was somewhat at a loss to explain her wanderlust, as her brothers and sisters are all "stay-at-home bodies," but thought she might have inherited it from Captain John Munson, an ancestor who in 1642 led a pilgrimage of Munsons to Massachusetts.

Looked The Part

He was a golfer who always played in his oldest clothes. One day he set out for the course, his clubs slung over his shoulder.

Walking down a street he saw a woman leaning over her garden gate, eyeing his approach eagerly.

"You're very late," she said, sharply, as he drew level.

"Late?" echoed the astonished golfer.

"Yes, late! You promised to sweep my chimney tonight, and it's past nine o'clock now."

OTTAWA DECIDES TO INVESTIGATE DROUTH PROBLEM

Ottawa.—A party of four permanent government officials, two from the department of finance and two from agriculture, will confer with the government of Saskatchewan on ways and means to meet the problem of drouth and farm relief.

Cabinet council wrestled with the Saskatchewan situation during two sessions and while no official statement was forthcoming it was learned the government had decided to place experienced men in that province for a period during which they will work with local government officials in an effort to ascertain in what manner assistance may be extended.

So far as could be learned no decision has yet been reached with respect to schemes involving the wholesale migration of farm communities to more northerly districts, and moves to bind and rejuvenate drifting top-soil by sowing a binding grass, and by forestation.

Even were it possible to find sufficient arable acreage in northern Saskatchewan upon which to locate the 40,000 families living in the dried-out areas of the south, it would mean at least $20,000,000 expenditure for a country already faced with a financial situation difficult to comprehend.

In addition to the Saskatchewan problem the same situation is said to exist in a lesser degree in the other two prairie provinces. What steps if any will be taken to meet the claims of the dried-out southern wheat fields remain to be decided after experiments being carried out by the department of agriculture have been completed.

Three prairie governments will seek the co-operation of the federal government to find an outlet for 125,000 surplus cattle from the three prairie provinces.

Of this number approximately 75,000 are in Saskatchewan, 20,000 in Manitoba and 30,000 in Alberta.

West Makes Clean Sweep

Creameries Capture Butter Awards At Canadian National Exhibition

Toronto.—Western Canadian creameries made a clean sweep in the butter awards at the Canadian National Exhibition. St. Boniface Creamery of St. Boniface, Man., won the silver cup for the highest scoring creamery butter exhibited, being awarded 97.5 points for their entry in the section for a 56-pound box of salted butter. They also won the creamery, salted, 56-pound box with 97.5 points.

Swift Canadian Company, Ltd., of Neepawa, Man., was adjudged winners for a 14-pound box of salted creamery butter and 14-pound box of unsalted creamery butter with 97.3 points in each. Premier award in the class for salted creamery butter, 20 pounds in one-pound prints, went to the Manitoba Co-operative Dairies, Winnipeg, with 97.3.

Other results with figures awarded for favor followed by total score and place in group:

Creamery, unsalted, box 14 lbs.: Second prize group—Saskatoon Dairy Pool, Saskatoon, 41.8 (first place); Sask. Co-op. Creameries, Saskatoon, 41.8, 96.7 (fifth place).

Creamery, salted, 14-lb. box: First prize group—Sask. Co-op. Creameries, Saskatoon, 42.0, 96.9 (eighth place).

Third prize group—Saskatoon Dairy Pool, Saskatoon, 41.0, 95.7 (sixth place).

Assistance For B.C.

Ottawa To Advance Funds For Relief Purposes

Victoria.—The Dominion government will assist British Columbia in the financing of direct relief to March 31, 1935, which will amount to approximately $2,500,000 in addition to the $1,200,000 grant from the federal government, John Hart, minister of finance, announced.

Mr. Hart returned here from Ottawa, where he spent several weeks negotiating for financial aid for the province.

Mr. Hart completed arrangements for a loan from the Dominion of $2,000,000 to meet a maturing obligation in New York and also for an advance of $375,000 on account of the deficit in the accounts of the last fiscal year.

He also negotiated a loan to the province of $1,000,000 for advances to municipalities unable to carry their share of direct relief.

Mr. Hart stated the Dominion has agreed that, on all the province's indebtedness to the Dominion, the interest rate will be 4 1/2 per cent. instead of 5 per cent. in line with a general fall in interest rates.

The minister said Prime Minister R. B. Bennett had agreed to loan the province $1,000,000 for a public works program as the result of representations made by Premier T. D. Pattullo for a loan of $500,000.

Sale Of Government Cars

Auction Sale In Toronto Stadium Next About $75,000

Toronto.—The University of Toronto's stadium, scene of many famous gridiron struggles, was thronged with a crowd of more than 5,000 to witness the Heppburn government's wholesale auction of automobiles used by officials and ministers of the former Henry government.

When the noise had died away and the auctioneers had completed their task, 87 cars had been disposed of at a sum aggregating about $37,000.

A large sedan that carried former Premier George S. Henry of Ontario a bit more than 48,000 miles was sold for $1,500.

Before the sale, 15 cars were withdrawn for use of the department of health, leaving the total number to go on the block at 87.

As the former premier's car was hoisted onto an elevated railway, Auctioneer M. Moore of Aylmer, Ont., exhorted the crowd to bid up, saying: "You will be proud to tell your grandchildren you bought the first government car sold at public auction, the car of Premier Henry."

There were numerous shouts of "ex-premier."

An expensive, but six-year-old car in which the late Hon. E. A. Dunning used to ride, was sold for $600. It has travelled 70,093 miles. A 1930 model of a less expensive car went for $400. It has done 115,307 miles.

Demand Tax Rate Cut

Edmonton Taxpayers Threaten Strike Unless Rate Is Reduced

Edmonton.—Edmonton taxpayers took up arms against their city administration and, in a mass meeting at which every one of the 1,480 participants had to produce assessment notice to gain admission, decided on a tax strike unless expenditures are reduced.

Redistribution of taxation liability and drastic cut in expenditures are demanded.

Edmonton's tax rate now stands at 64 mills, one of the highest in Canada.

A Woman President

Predicts A Woman Will Head U.S. Government Within A Generation

Chicago.—A woman president of the United States within a generation was predicted by Miss Lillian D. Rock, secretary of the National Association of Women Lawyers.

"I expect that within my own lifetime some brilliant woman will make her way from the ballot box to the presidency," she told the association's annual convention.

"All of our country's presidents have gone forth from women. What is to prevent woman herself from going forth to occupy this exalted post?"

Must Have Data

Edmonton.—Data will have to be obtained from other provinces of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, before there can be a final announcement concerning the movement of settlers northward from drouth areas, states acting Premier Hoadley. The minister said that full information concerning the Alberta problem had been submitted to the Ottawa authorities.

Fear Five Men Drowned

Thrown Into Columbia River When Cable On Cage Broke

Revelstoke, B.C.—Hope has been given up that any of the five men who were thrown into the Columbia river when the cable of a cage in which they were crossing the strait broke.

One man of six in the cable cage, Roy Palmer of Winnipeg, reached shore and two others were seen struggling 400 yards down the rushing water, but apparently they did not reach safety.

The men were employed in the relief camp at 10-mile on the Big Bend highway, and were amusing themselves on their off-work Sunday in taking an exciting ride across the river.

GRANT HALL, VICE-PRESIDENT C.P.R. DIES IN MONTREAL

Montreal.—A career intimately associated with the opening up of Western Canada was ended here with the death of Grant Hall, 70, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Mr. Hall was taken to hospital Aug. 11 suffering from a stroke. His condition at first improved but he never might recover, but he failed rapidly and his physician warned the end was near.

Although he was a native of Montreal and although he returned here to occupy the high railway post he held at his death, it was chiefly on the western lines that his capacity as an executive was developed.

He began his railroad career with the Canadian Pacific Railway as a fitter. In 1886, he joined the old Intercolonial railway as a general locomotive foreman, stationed at Moncton, N.B.

In 1898 he was again in the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway and held the position of general foreman at McAdams, N.B. Shortly after the turn of the century he went west as general foreman in Winnipeg.

In 1902 he went to Revelstoke, B.C., as master mechanic, then returned to Montreal as assistant superintendent of rolling stock, eastern division.

In 1904 he became superintendent of motive power, western lines, and in 1908 was made superintendent of motive power for the company.

From 1911 to 1912 he was the company's assistant general manager and in 1913 became general manager for western lines at Winnipeg. Two years later he was made vice-president and general manager at Winnipeg.

The position he held at his death, vice-president with jurisdiction over all lines, was his since 1918.

He was credited with having a thorough knowledge of all railroad problems, and was noted for his ability to avoid friction of all kinds and was known as a hard worker.

Mr. Hall held the affection of his men and was frequently chosen for the company's representative in arbitrating with the railroad unions.

He was born here Nov. 7, 1863. He married Mary E. Haley and had a son, William Hall, and a daughter, Madeleine Hall. He was educated at Bishop's college, Lennoxville, Que., and entered railroad work shortly after.

He was a member of several clubs including the Manitoba club, Winnipeg, and Vancouver club, Vancouver, and the Rideau club, Ottawa.

Billions For War

Fabulous Sums Spent In Europe For Armaments

London.—Confident the "eventual war" will be fought at high speed, the world is grooming fast iron soldiers to do the job.

While London and Paris army men tended to differ with the opinion of Italian military authorities expressed to the effect that trench warfare was obsolete, Great Britain and France nevertheless went forward with Italy in efforts to speed up movements of troops.

The League of Nations' armament yearbook published at Geneva estimated that the world spent between $3,471,000,000 and $4,389,000,000 gold for armaments in 1933.

A great part of this, army men agreed, went for tanks, aircraft and other fast fighting machines designed to wage war at maximum velocity.

While willing to admit the speed of highly mechanized modern armies would radically affect the old stalemate of trench warfare, French military leaders said they still believed trenches would continue to play an important part in warfare and held to their theory the infantry is still the backbone of an army.

The French intended to test transportation of troops by aeroplanes in air manoeuvres.

Great Britain's conviction that another war in Europe would be more open led to the creation this summer of the first permanent tank brigade.

May Become Permanent

Ontario Government Likely To Abandon Farm Loans Policy

Toronto.—The Mail and Empire says early abandonment of Ontario's farm loans policy is rumored at Queen's Park.

The paper adds: Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario minister of agriculture, is reported to be fearful of collecting anything like the $55,000,000 which the province has now out with the farmers and for that reason is said, on coming into office, to have ordered the suspension which now, to all appearances, may become permanent.

If the present policy is abandoned, the paper says, it is likely the entire staff of the agricultural development board, including W. Bert Roadhouse, chairman, will be dispensed with and only a bare skeleton of the organization retained.

New Mining Company

Has Been Incorporated

Capitalized At Ten Million And Will Promote Gold Production

Toronto.—Canadian Gold and Metals Mining Company, Limited, with authorized capital of $10,000,000, has been incorporated and will launch into the mining field shortly to promote gold production and to provide a medium for investment in mining securities.

Fifty per cent. or $5,000,000, of the company's capital is to be invested in dividend paying mining stocks, listed on a recognized exchange, or government bonds. Twenty per cent. is to be invested chiefly in mining stocks listed on an exchange but not necessarily dividend paying, and the remaining 30 per cent. is for speculative purposes.

Among the directors are Sir Henry Dronan, K.C.; Hon. W. D. Ross, J. W. Hobbs, E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and David Sloan, of Vancouver.

May Abrogate Treaty

Japan Will Not Adhere To Washington Treaty Unless New Plan Is Adopted

Tokyo.—Japan will abrogate the Washington naval treaty of 1922 unless other signatory powers "give evidences of favorable consideration to a new scheme for limitation of armaments which Japan will propose," a foreign office spokesman announced.

The spokesman indicated the proposal would be made during London discussions preliminary to the 1935 naval conference and that the attitude of the powers during and after this conference would be closely watched.

BETROTHAL OF PRINCE GEORGE IS ANNOUNCED

London.—The betrothal of Prince George Edward, fourth son of the king and queen, to the beautiful Princess Marina of Greece was announced in the court circular.

"It is with the greatest pleasure," the announcement said, "that the king and queen announce the betrothal of their dearly-loved son, Prince George, to Princess Marina, daughter of Prince and Princess Nicolas of Greece, to which union the king has gladly given his consent."

An acquaintance that dated back years to the young couple's first meeting in London ripened into romance in a Balkan setting, the picturesque Slovenian Alps of Yugoslavia, London understood. There the prince and princess have been staying at the summer home of Prince Paul of Yugoslavia.

The prince will be 32 on December 20, Princess Marina is 27.

The princess has inherited all the beauty and charm of her Russian mother and the pleasing qualities of her father, a brother of the late King Constantine of Greece.

The prince will be the third of the children of the reigning house to marry. His only sister, Princess Mary, the princess royal, was married in 1922 to Viscount Lascelles (now the Earl of Harewood). Their Majesties' second son, the Duke of York, was married in 1923 to Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon.

The Prince of Wales, heir to the throne, meantime remains a bachelor. He passed his 40th birthday last June.

It was understood no plans whatsoever have yet been made for the marriage.

The prince, next to the Prince of Wales, is best known of the royal children in Canada. As an officer on H.M.S. Durban in 1928 he visited various British Columbia cities.

The tall, blue-eyed handsome prince and his fiancée have many tastes in common.

Among them is love for music. The prince is an accomplished pianist while the princess has been schooled as an amateur musician.

The princess also likes dancing and shooting—two amusements of which Prince George, as well, is very fond.

A thoroughly modern girl in every respect, the young Grecian princess likewise engages enthusiastically in outdoor sports. Another trait calculated to endear her to England's sport-loving people.

The princess was educated in Athens, Paris and London, and speaks fluent French, English, Greek, Russian and German.

RUST-RESISTANT WHEAT SOON TO BE AVAILABLE

Toronto.—F. C. Nunnick, director of publicity for the Dominion agriculture department, intimated discovery of a rust-resistant wheat was not far off and he added information on the matter would be released soon.

As soon as it has been proven beyond all doubt the variety of wheat would resist rust, the information would be made known, he declared.

"We have been working on it for a number of years," he said, "but we expect to be able to give it to the western farmers soon."

He declared the department results in the task "are very encouraging" and it remained only to be proven "over a long period of time."

"Beyond that I can say nothing more at the present time," he declared.

Such a type of wheat would mean millions of dollars to the western farmer whose crops have suffered from rust.

Mr. Nunnick said the department also was working on a type of wheat that would combat saw-fly attacks. With a solid stemmed wheat, he added, the saw-fly would be unable to bore into it.

Drouth Problem

President Beatty of C.P.R. Opposed To Moving Settlers From South

Moose Jaw.—"The problem of the drouth areas in southern Saskatchewan cannot be solved by moving the people to other parts of the province. This would be unfair to the people involved, unfair to the drouth areas and a great mistake for the province," said E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, in an interview here.

"The solution of the problem lies rather in the governments standing by the farmers with required assistance to bring them through the emergency, coupled with soil conservation on lands adapted to grain growing, and the development of grazing land for grazing purposes, and a policy of water development and conservation for use on the farms," Mr. Beatty said.

By water conservation and development, Mr. Beatty explained, he did not mean large schemes for irrigation works, which experience in this country had shown to be too expensive for the returns possible, but rather the development of adequate water supplies for farm use, including stock grazing.

France Is Worried

U.S. Move Has Made Economic Problems More Acute

Paris.—France's fear of a "50-cent dollar" grew following the speech of Henry Morgenthau, American secretary of the treasury, which was nervously interpreted here as forecasting further inflation.

The trouble here, but a major part of the gloom was caused by belief that the pound was likely to follow, thus fanning an already hot devaluation campaign in France.

As the gap between world prices and high gold prices is widened, both supporters and opponents of a cheaper franc agree that French financial and economic problems have been made more acute.

London.—Financial London discussed with interest the Washington speech of United States secretary of the treasury, Henry Morgenthau, and could find no signs of inflation in details of the address he had made. Financial writers stressed the point that if gold profits are to be used to write off indebtedness that is the "reverse" of inflation.

Project Not Justified

This Is Opinion Of Mining Engineers Regarding Northern Railway

North Bay, Ont.—Arthur A. Cole, mining engineer of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, told Commissioner Armand Racine he did not believe mineral deposits along the railway were of sufficient value to justify construction of the road from Cochrane to Moosonee on James Bay.

Mr. Cole was testifying before Mr. Racine's inquiry into the working of the railway. He said construction of 186 miles of railway between the two points had cost $12,138,649 and that fur trade and tourist traffic are the chief business possibilities of the Moosonee area.

Annual operating deficit was $647,000.
